The Rural Medical Practitioner at Uppinangady is willing to visit the District Livestock Farm, South Kanara to render medical aid to the labourers and the farm staff once a week on a payment of Rs.4.8.0 per visit. The Director of Medical Services, Madras in his letter No.57473.G.2/50 dated 8.9.51 (copy enclosed) considers that this arrangement is much cheaper than opening a separate dispensary for the farm.

An estimate of expenditure is furnished in the annexure.

I request that Government may be pleased to sanction the proposal.

The expenditure is debitable to 41.Veterinary f. Breeding Operations H.Post War Reconstruction (iv) Cattle Breeding Farms - Other charges.

There is no medical officer of the rank of either sub-Asst.Surgeon or Civil Asst.Surgeon at Uppinangady. The Medical Institution at Uppinangadi is only a subsidized rural dispensary and the medical practitioner incharge of the dispensary is a not a whole time employee of either Government or District Board, He is paid annual subsidy from State funds. It is therefore recommended that the services of the medical practitioner may utilised for rendering medical aid to the staff of the Livestock at Koila on payment of remuneration of Rs.4.8.0 per visit.

2. This arrangement is much cheaper than opening a separate dispensary at Koila.

Sub: VETERINARY--District Livestock Farm, South Kanara--
Provision of medical facilities for staff.

Ref: From the D.A.H., No.1619-V/50, dated 13-10-1951.

The Livestock Farm at Koila in the South Kanara district is situated in an out-of-the-way place on the edge of the forest. The nearest large village is Uppinangady 6 miles away and the nearest town is Puttur, the taluk headquarters, at a distance of 16 miles. The farm staff consists of about 25 persons besides 50 labourers. The absence of amenities at Koila makes the place unattractive and it has been reported that the staff posted for duty in the Farm either would not join or would not stay on. The absence of facilities for the medical treatment of the staff and their families and labourers is said to account in part for the discontent.

2. The D.A.H. has explored the possibilities of getting a dispensary opened in Koila village, but it is reported that this will be very expensive. Instead, the D.M.S. has suggested that the services of the Rural Medical Practitioner at Uppinangadi may be utilised for rendering medical aid to staff on a remuneration of Rs. 4/8/- per visit to the Farm. The D.A.H. has recommended a weekly visit by the Medical practitioner. The proposal involves an annual recurring expenditure of about Rs. 500/- (i.e. Rs. 234 for honorarium to the physician and Rs. 260 for medicines and equipment).

ASSISTANT SECRETARY 2 NOV 1951 53894 HEALTH DEPARTMENT

3. The place is one of heavy rainfall and presumably malarial. Provision of medical facilities will make for greater contentment among the staff. The expenditure involved is also small. The proposals may therefore be supported in this Department.

4. Health and Finance may see for remarks.
